Comments: The closure of existing jeep trails and roads is what brings visitors to the area. The Yellow Pine's survival depends on the commerce brought by visitors. The Forest Service is supposed to provide public lands for public use. Recreational opportunities are a large part of that.

Lands with historical use should remain open for others to visit and enjoy.

I recommend you look at the use other Forests are getting when it comes to ATV/UTV use.

Sumpter Oregon/Granite Oregon in Eastern Oregon surrounded by the Wallowa-Whitman are showing positive results. Why is the Payette against the opportunities of increased recreational use?

Recreation is a growing use of the Public Lands, please grow with the industry.

I still hope someday the USFS and BLM will combine as one and get their crap together. Seems none of the Forests or Regions is on the same page.
