Comments: Please, please, please quit shutting roads down. I am disabled and cannot walk very far or through really rough terrain. We as a family like to forage. If the roads are locked up we cannot do this. So far we have planned a handful of trips into the forests of idaho. On nearly every single excursion when we finally reach the area we chose using google maps we find that the road has been gated off. Why are perfectly good roads being gated off on public land??? Truly feels like an injustice. Are we not allowed to use these blocked off roads? If so, why cant we us them? If we do walk into these blocked off roads the entrances have already been foraged. Every time. We need access. Why are we as citizens being restricted from enjoying our public lands? If its not public blocked land then it is private blocked land. We are about to give up on this new found activity. We already drive 1.5 hours one way to forage. I was born in lewiston idaho, and have family in idaho and we want to move to idaho. But why bother moving to idaho if all the state land is gated off? We already deal with that in washington state. We actually had to give up foraging in washington because of the gates. I am not making this up. What the heck is going on??
