Comments: Gentlemen, In my view wilderness should be left alone. The Forest Service should not use clearing equipment to create trails, but build trails around trees, with dead or dying trees left alone to nurture forest creatures.

Forest visitors should be allowed to experience the forest as nature provides, not tamed or built to specs to facilitate its experience. Its experience may entails risks and extra effort. Let it be.

The Forest Service needs to exclude all Wilderness areas from this project, including any encroachment from activity on wilderness boundaries.

As a Boy Scout and camper, I loved to experiment the sounds, scenery and the "wilderness" of our forest, to feel "lost" in the forest. Once you tamper that feeling, its lost. Don't put "roads signs" either, let it be real wilderness.
