

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 11/12/2021 8:55:32 PM

First name: Ilene

Last name: Beninson

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Chainsaws are fine ONLY when used on a person's personal property! Chainsaws are NOT fine when use in Wilderness Areas.

I have M.S. and there are times when crossing over a fallen tree would result in my walking elsewhere in the park. That is My Choice. I am GOOD WITH CHANGING MY PLANS to ALLOW MOTHER NATURE to LIVE A NATURAL existence.

Fallen trees are part of a forest and should be removed from a trail path by ONLY using CROSSCUT SAWS, Not chainsaws.

As a Wilderness Visitor, I want to experience nature as it exists in real life. That includes learning the risks and changing my hiking/walking plans if need be.

I was a teacher for many years and children/adults need to be educated with regard to how our natural world exists. That means Learning to be flexible and Altering plans when need be.

A sign posted is All that's NEEDED to alert me or anyone they may need to make another choice regarding what trail to use on any particular walk/hike.

ALL Wilderness area Must be Excluded from The Forest Service project. This exclusion Must Include Any encroachment from activities on wilderness boundaries.