Comments: Please do not use chainsaws in public land areas. And do not remove dead or dying trees in wilderness areas unless they are impeding paths. Every standing tree protects against wildfire by eliminating the wind that fuels fire. A dense forest is also less inviting to arsonists. Each standing tree provides homes and food for countless animals, including endangered species.

Just leave the forests alone! No more poison, no more cutting. No more profits on our public lands for the timber industry.
