Comments: Please do not restrict motorized access as much as listed in the preferred alternative. This limits a large population from being able to access the beauty of the backcountry even more than it already is. There is a significant percent of the population that cannot enjoy the beauty of the wilds of Idaho because of their disabilities. If you remove road access you permanently remove their ability to access the experiences that able-bodied people are able to have and that is just unfair to that portion of the population. There is over 2 million acres of wilderness that certain disabled people are not able to access because of the equipment they require to move.

I also ask that if you remove road access are you really preserving the history of the area? This area has been seen more activity in the last 150 years than the last 1000 years. Also without the road access many tribal members probably would not access these historic areas either.

So I ask that you consider keeping as much access to these remote areas of Idaho open to as many people as possible. Thank you for considering my request.
