

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 11/13/2021 9:08:51 PM

First name: Mary Lou

Last name: Zeis

Organization:

Title:

Comments: I have recently visited several southwest parks where there were many trees scarred by fire. I would rather see these trees standing than for them to be cut down, leaving barren land. Of course they will fall eventually, but then they will decompose and provide nutrients to animals and other plants.

While these blackened trees stand, they serve to remind us (humans) how careful we must be with nature and the climate crisis.