Comments: Regarding all your plans for Rosie Cedar #58938, it appears that your efforts lead to an excuse to do a lot of logging in a very beautiful, natural area.

It seems funny that humans feel a need to "manage" the forests, like Rosie Cedar #58938 . Obviously, forests have been around tens of thousands (if not millions) of years without human assistance. Forests do very well naturally, just the way they were created.

Therefore, this project seems like a great idea to make money; but it is NOT necessary for the forest, as suggested in all the documents. I recommend finding new sources of funds and leave the forest alone, the natural forests will take care of themselves.

Further, chopping (chipping?) and burning would be very bad for the overall environment.
