Dear Mark,

As you know, the Shoshone National Forest holds some of the most wild, vast, and scenic public lands in the world. Because it borders the world's national park, it provides important habitat for our nation's treasured wildlife and is a place where human and plant communities can thrive. It's important for me to protect the ecological integrity of our nation's public lands, which is why I'm submitting these comments to you for consideration as you finalize your Travel Management Plan.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide comments during this process. It's important to me that America's first national forest can balance the needs of a wide variety of uses, but especially for the animal, plants, and water that cannot speak for themselves.

Regards,

Bobbie Flowers
