Hello

The project to expand lutsen mountain will have a negative impact on the wildlife and natural area of the rest of the mountain. I think what lutsen mountain is lacking in terms of ski terrain is altitude not the acreage of the resort. Lutsen is already one of the biggest resorts in the midwest and I think forfeiting the public land to clear cut, and build on, is a mistake that will ultimately leave less public land for the generations behind us and take away from what makes northern Minnesota what it is. The mountain can already be utilized for skiing without clearing cutting it and making it private land.

Thanks for your time
