Comments: The peace and tranquility of our national forests is a respite from the chaos in our lives, and a chance to see and protect wild and wilderness areas in a too busy world. Any encroachment on these areas needs to protect the natural resources - terrain, plants, animals and human experience. If there is visible or habitat damaging infrastructure due to broadband, alternate resources need to be found.
As someone who desperately wants broadband access, it is not worth destroying, encroaching or damaging our national forests and wild lands.
