Comments: Writing this note in strong support of the proposed McClure Pass to Redstone trail. This would be a fantastic addition to the outdoor recreation in the area and so much fun for trail users. I imagine that there would be strong knock-on economic effects from trail users using this new trail as well. We can look at the positive impacts of trails like this from the Palisade Plunge in Palisade, CO. Such an awesome addition to the trail system there. As popularity of biking and hiking grows, dispersing users across more trails makes increasing sense and this would be a proud addition to the area's outdoor recreation opportunities. Let's build this thing!
