Comments: I'm writing to add my name to the long list of citizens who want ecologically driven land management in/for Mt. Hood National Forest - and I'm focusing here on the Grasshopper Project.

There must be NO aspects of planning that would cause detrimental effects to Northern Spotted Owl. Not only has past work damaged spotted owl habitat - the affected stand is profoundly threatened by what we humans call "climate change" and would likely be destroyed if alternative two is chosen.

Old growth in the project area (as elsewhere) provides the highest rates of carbon sequestration. You must allow Mt. Hood National Forest to further carbon conservation.
