Comments: Dear Forest Service, for years your agency has practiced target management. Now you have the obligation to practice preservation and protection of old growth. Why you would chop down the old beings and disturb habitat I suspect has to do with deference to logging. It is very late and essential that your agency finally change its ethic: "restoration" does not mean chopping down old growth. Your use of this language is disingenuous and Orwellian.

Act with integrity. "All flourishing is mutual." R.Wall Kimmerer,
