Comments: I support the removal of all hazard trees in the areas affected by wild-fires that have occurred in the past several years. In fact, I would support the opening of decommissioned roads so that sensitive logging practices could take place as well. Close to 400,000 acres have burned within close proximity of my residence. With fuel loads, standing snags and the on going drought, logging has never been more crucial. Once completed roads could be gated, but still be available as fire breaks when the next fire occurs(hopefully not as impactful).
