Comments: Hello, I am very concerned about TSV's proposal for expanded development in the Carson National Forest. Given climate change, limited water resources during a time of drought, and a small, delicate wilderness area, this development plan does not appear to be sustainable. Already, the Rio Hondo is being impacted by the large amount of development and use up at TSV. Wildlife, plant life, farmers and community members downstream along the Rio Hondo all use the water for their basic needs. The river can only provide for so many. TSV has already expanded their development greatly and they do not need to continue at the expense of all the other constituents that use and need the Rio Hondo for their livelihoods. Public funds should not be used for this development project that serves the interests of a few. Thank you, Elana T Lombard
