Comments: Where to begin? While I do understand the need for some changes to the present visitor center, the only acceptable alternative offered is alternative one. I wish you could have come up with an alternative that provides for some modernization without a huge increase in parking and other invasive disturbances.

Filling in Zigzag Pond! As I mentioned in the previous paragraph, I think most of the alternatives place way too much value on additional parking. What are we teaching visitors about climate change if we pave over a pond in order to provide more parking?

Then there are the proposed motorboats on the lake. Almost like someone is determined to ruin the beauty and silence that currently characterizes the visitor center area. This is a retreating glacier; let's not try to make it into a party.

I remember several years ago hearing a suggestion for a remote bus parking lot out by the loop road and shuttles to ferry passengers from that lot to the visitor center. Why wasn't that idea explored?

Finally, COVID showed us that the cruise industry is vulnerable. What happened to the number of cruise ship visitors during the last two years could happen again. Does it really make sense to plan our future according to pre-COVID conditions?
