Comments: I was raised in Northern California, Humboldt County. My first lessons in forestry were there and later, after Vietnam, I took a degree in forestry. I have never stopped learning. One thing I know for sure over the past few years is that "salvage logging" is far more environmentally damaging than leaving the trees in place. Please pay attention to the science.

This sale encompasses a huge area, making it difficult for people to comment knowledgeably. At the very least this "project" should be broken into smaller pieces allowing each community impacted to make their own comment.
