Comments: The proposed gigantic logging frenzy in the North Zone is clearly out of bounds.

Destruction of so much land in the name of road protection is ludicrous. There are too many roads now, and they were mostly meant for logging. Let the forest recover instead of beating it up. Let the martins and owls reproduce. The Forest Service must conduct a real EIS, rather than pretending that surveys have been done. This project is only contributing to climate change, instead of allowing the earth to heal from the fires our activities have caused.
