Comments: Lake Tarleton is considered home to the camp that changed my life, and without the current beauty that the lake presents, me or countless other kids wouldn't have also spent there summers looking out on the beautiful view. When the area was given over to the WMNF the unique wilderness character and recreational opportunities of this lake would be protected, and this should be designated as a scenic area in order not to betray the trust of those who worked so hard to preserve Lake Tarleton. The area currently allows me, other campers, and other visitors who go to the public beach to appreciate nature in its truest form. For me, It is an escape from reality and into paradise. I hope nothing about the lake changes.
