Comments: I've spent parts of nine summers not only visiting Lake Tarleton but living on the most beautiful lake I've ever seen, waking up each morning and soaking up every ounce of its beautiful views. There is a reason why I keep that view on my phone's background, staring at it multiple times every day. It is unlike anywhere else in the world and the White Mountain National Forest has been long protected for that reason. I would be so sad to not be able to see that view in the future and I hope the planned changes are strongly reconsidered.
