Comments: One of the most confounding things to Montanans year after year is how in the world these raging fires continue to occur when there are steps to reduce their incidence AND people willing to take these projects on. The accumulation of fuels for raging Bitterroot wildfires has a very simple solution - management.

There is no reason for this annual loss of land and homes, not to mention what the billowing lingering smoke does to the lungs of residents for 100's of miles. Those who live here and oppose management efforts - the minority - don't hold any responsibility or accountability and have few reasonable solutions other than to stand in the way of management. Those who oppose these efforts, work hard to oppose management efforts and DON'T live here to experience the devastation are reprehensible. Montanans in general are FOR forest management. We gone the no-management route. Let's see what can be done to mitigate these fires. Please allow this project.
