Comments: I support the wise management of our public forests, including fuel reduction and reasonable forest health management. I believe that responsible commercial resources to reduce fuels and manage the forests should be preferred, and that environmentally focused groups should not be able to get in the way of effective and reasonable forest management. Forest management should take into consideration that forests and people must live together, and that ultimately, our public lands, including the forests, are here for the enjoyment and use of people. As I understand that the Bitterroot Front project is a step in this direction, I support the Bitterroot Front project.
