Comments: Bitterroot Front Project: I am incredulous at the scope of this project. There are no details given as to where and how this project will be conducted. Should I scream EIS, EIS! It appears to be a 38% logging project which doesn't reduce fuels, just introduces weeds, lays the land bare to higher intensity fires, and changes the landscape for the worst outcome. How can the public honestly respond when the Forest Service isn't honest in what's going to happen to 144,000 acres.

Stay in the WUI with this project, leave the forest to natural management which keeps the forest temperatures and moisture amounts as resilient as possible with serious drought and climate change. This is an unnecessary humongous project that will scar a beautiful area of Montana. Thanks again Forest Service for not doing your job based on fire science.
