Comments: I am commenting here to oppose the Bitterroot Front project. I oppose because of the massive size of the proposed treatment area. I have read the documents and looked at the maps and it would take many hours to adequately comment on each site specific treatment accordingly. The massive size of this project makes it so that the public comment would not be able to account for all of the treatments proposed. I understand that the FS is hoping to push this project through all in one big swoop in order to reduce paperwork for EA's and EIS's if these treatments were to be proposed on a site specific basis. This big swoop method may reduce paperwork on the FS end but creates a huge headache for members of the public who are intent on commenting on such proposals. Please return to proposing projects on a site specific basis so that public can more thoughtfully assess the merits of any proposed treatments.
