Comments: I would like to know what the Stillwater Mining Company proposes to do with the contaminated tailings and waste rock in the future. May I remind you that nuclear waste, although apparently more toxic, is being stockpiled with no where to go and remains stockpiled. Will Stillwater remain responsible for the tailings and waste rock forever or until a site is provided for its disposal? What if the mining company goes bankrupt? We have innumerable hazardous waste sites in the East that have not been reconciled and much of the remediation is being paid for by the taxpayers, not the companies.
