Comments: Nature is the best healer! Cube Cove needs healing, not more rape, from the damage caused by past logging, roads, and associated impacts, and the agency's massive "restoration" program using heavy equipment is inappropriate for Wilderness. Why has the agency failed to even consider any wilderness-compatible solutions to restoring more natural conditions at Cube Cove, including allowing nature to continue to reclaim the area over time? WHO exactly benefits from that ignorant policy? WHY has the FS has effectively shortened public comment opportunities by issuing a combined scoping document proposed action that is essentially the same pre-scoping information, leaving many unanswered questions, including what alternatives, if any, will be analyzed, and the legal and policy background of the lands in question?
