Comments: In my time here on the planet I've traveled the majority of the lower 48 states looking for old growth trees. The vast majority are now long gone with only a very small percentage left untouched. I've come here to beg you on behalf of my daughter, please discontinue logging old growth trees. The Old growth is worth far more standing then turned into board feet of timber. Once it's gone it will never return. These forests took thousands of years to form into what we see today. Please leave the old growth standing. Thank you for your time.
