Comments: Comments on definition of old growth forest as it pertains to the Oconee National Forest.....

Id consider the hardwood bottoms along the Oconee River and Appalachian Rivers and along some of the creeks with in the forest as Old Growth. The vast pine forests.....hardly old growth....loblollies are like weeds.....and should be harvested for timber....

Chatahoochee National Forests.....limit what is considered old growth to designated wilderness areas only.....the whole place was clear cut how many years ago? less than 100..... stumps are still all over the place.....especially on Cohutta.....

Both the Oconee and the Chattahoochee NF need to be clear cut.....the stuff grows back.....wildlife is suffering because of a lack of forest diversity.....

I am more concerned about you all selling off small tracts of NF land then with clear cutting.....
