

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 8/27/2022 2:55:55 AM

First name: Susan

Last name: Stantejsky

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Old growth forests represent some of the most complex ecosystems on earth. All plants, animals, and fungi interact to produce a stunning amount of sequestered carbon and abundant oxygen. The intricacies and benefits of this ecosystem cannot be overexpressed. We need these forests to store carbon and restore dirty air. The need for these functions is critical to help manage the climate crisis. Please study these forests and produce actionable climate plans immediately.