Comments: Having spent several summers enjoying the wilds of southeast Alaska, I have been touched by the Tongass National Forest. One can't put into words, the peacefulness, the smells and aura, the tranquility felt among the Sitka spruce & Douglas fir, the cottonwoods and fireweed speckled alpine meadows. I urge you to protect this special place. Not only for the seasonal workers like myself, but for the good of the earth, for the indigenous people, for the wildlife & the flora & fauna. Please don't allow continuous logging of one of the few remaining ancient wildernesses. Please leave this sanctuary be.
