Comments: I agree with the protection and the preservation of are mountains and everything that lives with in them.

I have been riding snowmobiles and snow bikes in them for the past 27 years. I feel that the closure dates are a little extreme. Having them closed march 31st cuts of the best part of the riding season.

For the most part the season doesn't get good until mid to late January. That only gives us two to two and half month of riding. In all my years of riding I have not seen any sign of a grizzly bear up in the higher elevations while there is still snow on the ground. Most of the people I know or run across up riding are also being very respectful to the environment they are riding in.

Just seems a bit Extreme.
