Comments: Hello, thank you for taking the time to read my message. Having previous relationships with POWDR, I can confidently suggest that they do not share or possess the values example by the Swan or Holland Lake specifically. They are known for taking the monetary advantage found in our (public lands) wild spaces. Look at what they've done in the Wasatch range in Utah. This project could threaten critical habitat for one of the most influential grizzly bear populations we have in the lower 48. Of all places, let's leave the western front to the Bob alone.
