Comments: To whom it may concern, I agree with thinning and fuel reduction. However there is a shortage of roads for the elderly and handicapped to access what belongs to ALL American citizens not just the rich and able bodied. To be clear- I'm 100% AGAINST closure or decommissioning a single foot of of roads. You as managers of public lands MUST consider the hardships of those not able to hike or rude horses. You must consider the financial impacts upon local towns in and around the Forest that rely on money spent by motorized recreation = nearly 1 TRILLION dollars nation wide. You must consider multiple generational camping, hunting, foraging riding, etc that will be gone forever when you lock up the roads to access these areas. There is no environmental detriment to susstainamotorized recreation. Thank you and I look forward to being apart of this going forward.
