Comments: Growing up spending multiple weeks per summer at Holland Lake we found the area to truly be one of the last best places in the Seeley Swan Valley, possibly in the entire state. The area and the oneness with nature that it allows for and provides is second to none. The serenity of the area along with the plentiful wildlife in the area would be destroyed if a big corporation were to come in and make the Lodge and surrounding areas a resort. The lake is the most peaceful lake in the valley with very few (if any) motorized watercraft. It provides the perfectly private backdrop for weddings and special events that you can't get in many other places due to large corporations running them. This place is currently off grid and has been for decades. To bring national attention to this place with a big corporation would only bring destruction to one of the most beautiful places in earth.
