Comments: Everyone in this country has the unmitigated right to do what they want with their property within the confines of HOAs, forest service rules, legal sales etc. Christian Wohlfeil has tried over the years to sell the business. Many other groups expressed interest, but the deals didn't go through. He has the right to sell this to a corporation if that is who is willing to buy it. Change is inevitable. I wish the people who are trying to stop this now, would have banded together and bought the lodge themselves. How nice would that have been?
