Comments: For "Holland Lake to thrive," leave it alone. Rather, the people behind this proposal want the resort business to thrive. Why does it always have to be about making more money? Who does that truly benefit? As for more jobs -- you're talking about minimum wage jobs for the locals, like maids and cooks, who will have to serve and cater to the rich. This isn't truly going to benefit local Montanans at all. It's only going to drive up property prices when more rich people decide they want their "own" cabin. Montana does not need another resort, especially a precious lake surrounded by vital habitat that supports wildlife. Do you really want another Yellowstone Club? Bozeman? or Whitefish? Did you know that 18% of Flathead County property is owned by ONE billionaire family, Mark and Robyn Jones? The Clearwater area already has that sprawling eyesore, the Paws Up Resort. I grew up in W. Montana, graduated grade school, high school and college in Montana. Why can't you just leave Holland Lake alone? Please leave Montana wild (or please leave). If you really want to do something for Montana, then please bring an industry to the towns where local residents can thrive. Then these hard-working locals can go enjoy the places and state where they actually LIVE year round.
