Comments: I have been camping at Holland Lake yearly my whole life. Holland is a place of peace and comfort to disconnect from the outside world. I have concerns that creating a larger resort would take away from this peaceful environment as well as overwhelm the lake with the amount of people that would come. I am concerned that this would be a tourist resort all around and no longer be a place for locals to go for fun, rest or a place to create memories. While there are times and places for updates, I believe that some places have inherent value as they are and do not need to be changed. Please have local Montana's values in mind while making this decision.
