Comments: My family has visited Holland Lake for hiking and camping for many years as we grew up staying in our cabin outside of Seeley. It's beauty lies in the nature around it including the wild landscape and native wildlife and one of the best parts about visiting is the peaceful solitude one can enjoy. It's increasing popularity has brought MANY people from out of state and in-state. Everyone has a right to enjoy it but I fear that expanding the lodge and it's facilities would greatly negatively impact the environment, flora, fauna, and any future enjoyment by those who are seeking to experience Holland and Montana as it should be, WILD AND NATURAL! Leave it alone. No profits from further commercialization would be worth destroying more of this beautiful place.
