Comments: The project is in essence , lots of people crowded onto a not very large lake, that is on a narrow dead end road in a forest fire prone area with ONE road out, sounds like a recipe for what big city folks call getting away from it all.

Meanwhile the wildlife and rural rustic ambiance suffer and once it is gone, it is not something that easily can come back.

When you pave paradise, it really becomes the opposite of paradise.

At some point unbridled expansion doesn't assist anyone in the long TERM , and if we wish to preserve this wilderness for coming generations to enjoy, it is time NOW to look closely at the LONG term impacts to both wild life as well as ability for locals to continue to enjoy this area and not make it just a destination for the wealthy that do NOT pay taxes in our state.
