Comments: Although I do not live in MT, I travel there once a year to backpack and have been to this area multiple times. I go there for the wildness and beauty. A resort of this magnitude will ruin the area. Although a resort is already there, it is of historical value and should be restored, not torn down or expanded. This kind of development boils down to greed, with no regard for history or the natural environment. As a US taxpayer, that forest is part mine and I want it to remain as is!
