Comments: Montana is being sold to the highest bidder, with its rustic rural values left in the garbage bin. The Holland Lake proposed resort is the epitome of such ruination of rural Montana & its simple harmony with nature. The current lodge is perfect with perhaps a facelift in the next few years. However, the proposed resort is too big, too disruptive, too citified (fiber optic? How is that an enhancement of forest service land, rural values?). I vote a big NO, thumbs way down on the proposed Holland Lake Resort project. It is not at all in keeping with the quiet, nature-centered atmosphere of Holland Lake.
