Comments: Turning such a small, tranquil lake into some kind of tourist attraction is one of the most ridiculous ideas I've ever heard. Holland Lake is the first lake I ever stayed on as an adult in Montana, and I ADORED it for how it fully embodied what Montana is. Putting a resort or any kind of "attraction" here would ruin what it is to Montanans. Those who have had homes on it for generations would potentially not be able to carry on their legacy. The one less populated lake, perfect for quiet and peaceful days, would be overwhelmed by noise and traffic on its scenic roads. Please, do NOT do this to Montana. The Yellowstone series is the worst thing that happened to our great state because now everyone thinks Montana needs to be conquered. Don't ruin us.
