Comments: Expanding development in an area of outdoor recreation contradicts the word "outdoors". People go to places such as Holland Lake to be "out-of-doors", not stare at a bunch of buildings. If someone wants to spend time at a lake with plenty of amenities, lakes such as Seeley Lake, Flathead Lake, or Whitefish Lake are not too far from the area and have already been widely developed. This project aims to ignore the local Montanans, and instead serve those who come from out of state, trash the area, and leave it for us to clean up.
