Comments: We are totally against the proposed resort on Holland Lake that will be on the peninsula where the current Holland Lake Lodge is. Holland Lake is a quaint typical Montana lake that people enjoy visiting. It characterizes the Montana rustic locations that make Montana special. If they remake this area it will totally destroy the character and change the look, feel and quality of this beautiful area. If you look at the lodges and lakes in Glacier National Park, they mostly maintain this character and it is one of the most visited parks in the country.

People come for nature, not modernized, citified accommodations. Just the loss of trees and natural space would be terrible.
