Comments: Hello,

My name is Caleb and I spent the greater part of my 20s working in and around the Bob Marshall Wilderness Complex for the USFS and non profits. This is an extremely special and important place, Holland Lake being one of the major access points to this magical area. I was very concerned to hear of this proposed development by POWDR and would like to express my disapproval of such a project. Our public lands are for the benefit of all, and this project will only further widen the gap between who can afford to stay near these wild places and who cannot. In addition, the process would most likely involve destroying or altering historic structures that have been in place for generations - these structures have inherent value in themselves to stay intact for the public benefit. As well, adding that many cabins and capacity in the direct vicinity of a lake such as Holland will have highly consequential environmental impacts. Thanks for reading and allowing the public to provide comment on this process.
