Comments: My family has visited this area numerous times and we love it as it is.

The present lodge is perfect for the site, letting people enjoy a rustic experience without destroying it.

The proposed project is way out of scale, and would be compatible with a developed area, not a beautiful wilderness.

If you have to slaughter trees to achieve it, you definitely missed the point.

There is no way this should be approved without an extensive environmental review and longer well publicized input from the public.
