Comments: We must preserve the natural state of the lands we have left. Montana is so very special because we (humans as a whole) haven't yet pillaged every square mile. I consider myself lucky to have been born here and to have grown up here enjoying nature. So much growth has occurred in the last two years alone that I don't recognize the "feeling" of my home state. Bringing in more luxury will only force more locals out. Don't make Montana into Colorado; exploited and barren.
