Comments: This should not even be an issue! Buying forest property does not allow you or entitle you to develop it and over develop it and make money on it. The reason we have great state parks and forests in the United States is because there are guidelines on how to develop. A development here would overburden the roads, water and sewage not to mention the absolute deterioration of the beauty in the area because of all the people. We need to think of this area as a gift to the children being raised here not to the people who don't live here or want to come here just to use it up. Think critically on everything that is being proposed please. Thanks for listening Annmarie Couser
