Comments: Americans come from all over our vast country to enjoy the breathtaking beauty of this area. They leave behind other resorts and crowded areas in other states in order to relax in the quiet and find an escape from the hustle and bustle of modern life. All Americans deserve the opportunity to enjoy the wilderness that is left in our country. It is the Forest Service's role to protect the land for the American people, not individual corporations. The process by which this expansion is being considered makes me wonder if someone high up in the FS is getting paid off by someone from the corporation. How else could anyone with a degree think that we will all just role over and let this slip by?
